The Process:

Funds may only be used for tuition, books and curriculum related expenses. If a scholarship recipient terminates their program prior to the end of the funding period, Lane Community College will refund any unused portion of the scholarship back to Lane Electric.

If for any reason, a recipient fails to register for classes at Lane Community College, an alternate may be awarded the scholarship. If alternates are not available, the scholarship shall revert back into Lane Electric's scholarship fund.

Duration:

Scholarships are not necessarily limited to one year. It is understood that there may be instances whereby the disbursement of these funds must occur over multiple academic years. Should this become necessary, Lane Electric must be notified in advance so proper arrangements can be made.

Interview:

Final candidates must be available for a personal interview at Lane Electric's headquarters facility at 787 Bailey Hill Road, Eugene, Oregon, 97402. Applicants will be notified of the day, date and time, once candidates have been selected for interview. The scholarship committee reserves the right to determine how many applicants will be interviewed and the number of scholarships to be awarded annually.

In Preparation For Your Essay and Interview

As you prepare your application, you will need to have some awareness and knowledge on the following topics. Information about them is readily available on our website at laneelectric.com, and from Lane Electric's history book, which is available at our headquarters at 787 Bailey Hill Rd., in Eugene.

1. What is a cooperative?

2. Basic facts about Lane Electric and its board of directors.

3. The 7 Cooperative Principles

1. Voluntary and Open Membership – Cooperatives are voluntary organizations, open to all persons able to use their services and willing to accept the responsibilities of membership, without gender, social, racial, political or religious discrimination.
2. Democratic Member Control – Cooperatives are democratic organizations controlled by their members, who actively participate in setting policies and making decisions. The elected representatives are accountable to the membership. In primary cooperatives, members have equal voting rights (one member, one vote) and cooperatives at other levels are organized in a democratic manner.
3. Members' Economic Participation – Members contribute equitably to, and democratically control, the capital of their cooperative. At least part of that capital is usually the common property of the cooperative. Members usually receive limited compensation, if any, on capital subscribed as a condition of membership. Members allocate surpluses for any or all of the following purposes: developing the cooperative, possibly by setting up reserves, part of which at least would be indivisible; benefiting members in proportion to their transactions with the cooperative; and supporting other activities approved by the membership.
4. Autonomy and Independence – Cooperatives are autonomous, self-help organizations controlled by their members. If they enter into agreements with other organizations, including governments, or raise capital from external sources, they do so on terms that ensure democratic control by their members and maintain their cooperative autonomy.
5. Education, Training, and Information – Cooperatives provide education and training for their members, elected representatives, managers and employees so they can contribute effectively to the development of their cooperatives. They inform the general public, particularly young people and opinion leaders, about the nature and benefits of cooperation.
6. Cooperation Among Cooperatives – Cooperatives serve their members most effectively and strengthen the cooperative movement by working together through local, national, regional and international structures.
7. Concern for Community – While focusing on member needs, cooperatives work for the sustainable development of their communities through policies accepted by their members.

4. How you can participate in your cooperative.

- a) Attend a district or annual meeting: Each year the cooperative holds between 4 and 6 district meetings across the service area, culminating with an annual meeting held at the co-op's headquarters facility. These meetings provide the opportunity for members to review the co-op's previous year's activity. Director elections, bylaw revisions and officer reports provide members with a valuable opportunity to learn about Lane Electric.
- b) Attend a member meeting: From time to time, directors host district wide member meetings. These meetings provide members with an informal setting to discuss their concerns and to learn more about cooperative issues and events.
- c) Serve on the board of directors: A director is elected from each of five districts for a three-year term. Nominating meetings are scheduled prior to the annual meeting for members to select potential director candidates.
- d) Member Committees: Occasionally, Lane Electric will ask members to sit on various committees to provide input to the board and management staff. Past committees have worked on bylaw revisions and the co-op's budget, and a current committee is the one reviewing these scholarship applications!

5. How you can stay informed about your co-op.

- a) Ruralite magazine: This is our main monthly communication source. We use seven pages (usually pages 4, 5, 8, 25, 28, 29 and 32) to update members on important issues, new services, or energy saving tips.
- b) Bill messages: Your monthly bill includes a brief message on a variety of topics.
- c) Direct mail: Often an important issue or meeting does not fit the timelines of Ruralite or the bills. In this case, we may mail a notice or postcard to keep you informed.
- d) laneelectric.com: Lane Electric's website offers a variety of information about the co-op. Whether you are interested in programs & services, construction specifications, payment options, rate schedules, or contacting directors, our website has the information you need.
